SUMMER 2017 ISSUE

2017 Presidents Message

Mark Jenkins
2017 RSMCA President

It has been an absolute pleasure to serve as your association President this year. It has been the experience of a lifetime. RSMCA is going places and I am glad I was a part of it.

We set out this year with several goals and one was to re-invent the Voluntary Licensing Program. We now have a program that includes online secure testing for low and steep slope roofing. We established a board that will oversee this program. The successful implementation of this would not have been possible without the help of Jay Poston, Mark Ashe, and Walter Schnurr. A big thanks to them for taking their time and creating a test that is something to be proud of. Thank you Gina Grantham (and staff) for all the detail work of getting it done in such a professional manner. Our association would not be where it is today without Gina and her staff.

I need to acknowledge some very deserving individuals who were the recipients of the Boone Noblitt Award and President's Award. Cory Tibbs, GAF/Nobel Sales Inc., was awarded the Boone Noblitt Award for his leadership and dedication to our organization and the RSMCA Scholarship Golf Tournament. Jay Poston, Thomson Roofing, was the recipient of the President's Award, presented because of his commitment to the RSMCA Voluntary Licensing Program in taking the lead role of the development of the new exam.

I would like to challenge all association members to help recruit new contractor members. The future of our growth and value will hinge directly around contractor members and participation. Now more than ever. There is no doubt the biggest area of potential membership lies in steep slope contractors. We now have value that they can use to take their businesses to the next level.

The success of this year would not have been possible without a great board. I would like to thank all the board members for their participation at meetings and willingness to jump right in. The Executive Board has been so rewarding to work with. I have no doubt that the years to come will be some of the best ever. As I pass the gavel to our next President, Jonathon Glisson, I know he will lead with passion and knowledge. His commitment to this association will only improve the roofing industry.

Finally, I would like to thank all the convention sponsors. Our convention in July at the King and Prince in St. Simons Island was outstanding. This association could not function without the support of our sponsors at our marquee event. Thank you for financially allowing us to improve the roofing industry in Georgia.

Sincerely,

Mark Jenkins

Meet the New President

Johnathan Glisson
2018 RSCMA President

My name is Jonathan Glisson and it is a tremendous honor to serve as your new incoming president. I've been involved in the roofing industry for 15 years and have been involved with the RSMCA for 12 years. Having started out in the field all the way through sales and project management, this is really the only industry I have ever worked in, and it has changed my life.

I guess it's hard for someone to understand who is not directly involved in this profession to hear "man, I love this industry" but I do, I think we all do to some extent. Before I get into that here is a brief background about me.

I grew up in rural south west Georgia in the tiny town of Donalsonville. This is an area dominated by the agricultural industry. I, like many from my small corner of Georgia, learned early on that the weather was both friend and foe. I can remember family members praying for rain in the spring to help nourish our crops and ensure their growth and then praying for it to stop in the fall, so we could harvest our crops to take to market, to pay the years bills and put food on the table.

I somewhat fell into the roofing industry but soon figured out we share the same dilemmas as far as the weather is concerned. We pray for rain to generate the work we need to keep our businesses moving forward. But as I am sure many of you are experiencing this year, we need it to stop for a while to get it all done. Man, I love this job!

We are coming back from one off the best conventions I have ever attended. I laughed and learned a lot and I'd like to take a moment to say thanks to those who made it possible. Mark Jenkins and Gina Grantham, along with our associate, executive and general RSMCA boards worked diligently to pull the convention together and their efforts were evident at the King & Prince this year. The convention flowed smoothly and new efforts to change things up a bit seemed to pay-off. I think all those in attendance had a wonderful time and if you weren't there, I truly feel as though you missed out. You may be asking yourself "what did I possibly miss out on?" Well, let me tell you from my perspective. The convention is a time for fellowship, education and relaxation. It is probably the only time of year that you can be surrounded by people who understand the struggles you face day in and day out. People who can relate to the stresses caused by our profession and who simply "get it".

For me, it is a time where I can put a human face on the competition and realize that while we may all bid against one another, we all share the same trials and tribulations. A convention is a place where I pick-up industry pointers by just listening to someone else explain how they overcame a problem they were facing that I hadn't thought of yet. A convention is where I recharge my batteries and realize I'm not alone, that we all face the same challenges and that I am surrounded by the people who want to "do it right", with pride & integrity. That's what the RSMCA is, it is a fraternity of likeminded men and women who share a common thread. That thread is the roofing industry. An industry that has given more to me than I can ever repay. The only way I can think of, to try and settle that debt, is to volunteer. To volunteer alongside an organization who's sole focus is to make the roofing industry in Georgia a better industry. That's why we all do it. All the presidents, board members, commentee chairs and associate members before me, I am sure felt the same way.

Large & Gilbert, P.C.

So, I'll leave you with this. Each of you know someone who should be a member of this organization. Reach out to them. Tell them about your experience last month. Get them involved. I bet they will thank you later if you do. One of our biggest goals is to grow membership. We grow our membership and everything else that we, as an organization, are trying to do for the betterment of this industry with our Members and new Members. We can then offer more value to each of you and continue to grow together.

"The Summer Prevent Defense "

Ah, the harsh realities of mid-summer. For most contractors, June, July, and August represent heavy working months. The same months, for many parts of the country, represent summer heat, which means summer mistakes made because guys are not thinking, planning, and executing as sharply as they were in the spring.

After being a contractor and then working with contractors for a combined 35 years, I've lived with and observed those companies with crews that appeared to make mistakes in June through August, that they would not have made in the spring months. Many of these mistakes are due to mental exhaustion that is tied to the physical toll that the summer heat can have on leaders and workers.

While we pray for good dry days to work, the dry or humid days with upper nineties, and temperatures busting the one-hundred-degree register, can bring many potential problems with it. Tools are not loaded at the end of the day and never recovered, the extra needed component gets overlooked by those individuals stocking the trucks, and of course, when another hour could have finished out the project, the foreman decides to call it a day. Yep, more costs incurred for the simplest of reasons can be realized during the hot summer months than just about any other series of months.

What is needed, and rarely executed, is to enact a "summer prevent defense." Something that will delay the biggest mistakes from being made, maybe even preventing them altogether.

In the game of football, a "prevent defense" is usually applied by a winning team toward the end of the first half or second half of play. Its purpose is to protect the winning team's lead, to safe-guard the field by spreading out the defensive players to prevent the opposing team from throwing a long pass for a touchdown. It's not the normal defense played at other times of the ball game, but reserved for these special moments.

The same theory is behind my introduction of the "Summer Prevent Defense," or, SPD. Let me share a few ideas that contractors can use to prevent a total "melt-down" due to hot conditions that can try the patience and professionalism of our leaders, workers, and customers.

- Call a field "time-out" once every two or three weeks. Have the guys/gals come in early one day and have some cold watermelon, ice cream, etc. back at the yard or office and just engage your people.
- Celebrate more wins, as they occur.
- When issues arise, don't OVER-REACT...just go to the parties involved; assess, fix, and re-teach.
- Slow down your pre-start to insure clarity, accuracy, planning, resources, are all available and executed...don't allow any crew to begin their day without all the needed info, tools, equipment, etc.
- Spend more time with your front-line leaders, your Supervisors, Superintendents, Foremen, and Project Managers to insure they are prepared and ready for each new project and day. They too can tire and lose their way a little when the heat is turned up.
- Over-emphasize hydrating...follow the safety rules "plus" when the heat is literally turned up; no second chances with heat exhaustion.
- Invest in some sun-protective helmet nets for guys to keep sun off their necks if crew works outside
- Have the senior leaders, especially the "head" of the leadership team, make more visible appearances to sites and with guys in the morning or afternoon as the guys are returning.
- Have senior leaders make site visits with greater frequency; make such visits educational but also giving encouragement.

One or more of the above ideas may just do the trick for you but rest assured, keeping your teams engaged and at their performing best is no trick. It takes hard work and even the best construction companies I know experience the “mid-summer blues,” working hard to prevent every mistake whenever possible.

While a contractor and construction leaders never want to make playing “defense” their number one strategy, sometimes all a company can do is to give their crews some extra effort, keeping them distracted to stay project focused rather than focusing on their hot bodies, sore muscles, and a feeling that need to stay home.

And one more thought. This article isn't about buying more ice-cream or being soft on your work crews. Construction isn't easier in the fall or spring than the summer. It's tough all the time...BUT...the summer heat, for most contractors, do tend to incur more potential heat related safety incidents, little and often stupid decisions, made by some of your best people. And always, equipment always tends to break down during busy times.

Tempers, anger, and worse emotions can surface during the summer months. Work hard to prevent as much of the mental nonsense that can develop through leaders and workers not staying as sharp and sensitive to field issues... before they grow into full-fledged problems.

Here's to improving your prevent defense.

Brad Humphrey

BASE Lightning Protection, Inc.

Protecting Your Assets

Lightning Protection – Surge Protection – Grounding – Certification

BASE Lightning Protection is proud to join the RSMCA. We provide the entire Southeast with lightning protection systems that meet UL, NFPA, and LPI standards. We install lightning protection systems during new construction and retrofit systems on existing buildings. We can also certify new systems and re-certify existing systems. We would be more than happy to provide a quote and work with you to install a lightning protection system on any of your projects.

RSMCA Education Series: CPR & First Aid

When:
Anytime you have some free time!

What:
RSMCA has negotiated a great member rate for CPR & First Aid Classes.

Where: Two Locations: Norcross and Kennesaw
(Kennesaw Saturdays only)

This is a new opportunity that we feel will allow members to take a CPR & First Aid class, with a discount through RSMCA, but at their own leisure through a great local company that offers classes all week and on Saturdays.

Come when you can! Even same day availability!

Raining? Sign up for a CPR class!
Slow time? Sign up for a CPR Class!

Once payment is received, you will be sent the instructions on how to take the course and sign up.

Course Overview:
This course covers the American Heart Association's program for CPR and First Aid. Learn important guidelines and techniques to safely address medical emergencies. Completion of the course provides a two-year certification card.

ROOFING MATERIALS & EQUIPMENT

EverGuard Extreme® is the best-performing TPO you can buy. See for yourself...

Heat can severely degrade TPO membranes over time. So we torture-tested our 60 mil EverGuard Extreme® TPO against the three other leading brands at 275°F—a temperature beyond even the most rigorous proposed ASTM tests. As you can see in the unretouched photography below, the results were astounding:

Our EverGuard Extreme® TPO looks virtually brand new, while every one of the competitive brands shows cracking (or worse failure).

Want to see for yourself? Watch the actual time-lapse photography at www.gaf.com/tpo. You'll never think about TPO the same way again.

Even after the most severe accelerated heat aging at 275°F for 163 days, EverGuard Extreme® TPO showed no cracking—while every one of the competitors' samples had failed!

See the actual time-lapse proof at www.gaf.com/tpo

INSURANCE

Since their CNA Risk control training, Dave Morris Roofing has instituted a monthly safety check-in. Today, that commitment saved an employee, and maybe Dave's company, from disaster. Through our partnership with NRCA, construction experts and independent agents, we create coverages and risk control programs that keep companies safer and premiums to a minimum.

When it comes to proactive risk control ...
we can show you more.®
