Presidents Message

Hello Everyone,

I know it has been said a lot recently, but we are certainly in unprecedented times. While many industries were turned upside down in the last year due to the pandemic, the roofing industry is now facing one of the largest most challenging times in its history. It has been over 40 years since we've experienced anything close to the current supply chain disruptions. We don't know how long this material shortage will last so make sure you stay updated on current conditions and continue to communicate with your suppliers and customers throughout this difficult time.

Meanwhile, many restrictions from the pandemic have been lifted and everyday life seems to be coming back to a sense of normalcy. The GARCA Board held all our meetings this past year virtually and I for one am extremely excited to get back to being with everyone face-to-face (without masks)!

The next opportunity to be together just happens to be our most important and exciting event, which is our Annual Summer Convention. This year we will be back on the beach in St. Simons Island, and we are working to make this a memorable and worthwhile experience for everyone. If you have never been, this event is the perfect opportunity to network with your roofing peers and take away some insights into what is going on with our industry. I hope that you will join us there. Make sure you don't wait too late to register as hotels are seeing a flurry of activity. Once our block of rooms fills up, places to stay will get a little harder to come by.

I am excited to announce that GARCA has awarded 19 scholarships to children of our members for the 2021-2022 school year. These students all had wonderful all submitted strong applications and we are thrilled to help them along the way to a successful future. Congratulations to the students and their parents!

We are continuing to see more members participate in the Voluntary Licensing Program and we appreciate all the feedback from those who have participated. As more quality contractors sign up and take the open book test, consultants and owners are taking notice. We are starting to see more pre-qualifications for a Georgia license and since we are one of the only states in the Southeast without a mandatory licensing program, the voluntary license you can obtain through GARCA is the best option for meeting that criteria. Don't hesitate to reach out for more information if you have not taken the test yet.

The whole point of having an association like this is for companies involved in the same industry to come together and get things done as a group. I've often been asked "What is the value of joining GARCA?" The best answer I can and always will give is the relationships you will create when you get involved. Yes, we provide a service to our membership whether it is voluntary licensing, discounted safety training or industry education, but the things you learn from the other members is the true value. I am so thankful for the friendships that I have created through this organization and I learn something new each and every time we get together.

I hope to see you all at Convention in July!

Can We Require Our Employees to Take the COVID-19 Vaccine? Should we?

The short answer to this question is that federal law allows private employers to require vaccinations as a condition of employment. It is anticipated that the law will not treat the adaption of a COVID-19 vaccination policy any differently.

Indeed, the EEOC has now opined that the COVID-19 vaccination itself is not a medical exam. This means employers can require the vaccination as a condition of employment, although employers need to be mindful of employees claiming an exemption from the vaccination policy based on health-related or religious reasons.

Employers who will be administering the vaccination to their employees will also need to clear another hurdle. Consequently, the rule does come with exceptions.

ADA Concerns

For employees claiming a disability prevents them from getting vaccinated, the question becomes whether the employer can provide the employee a reasonable accommodation that would allow the employee to continue to perform the essential functions of their job without being a direct threat to the employee's own safety and the safety of others in the workplace.

The direct threat standard is a high one – there must be a significant risk of substantial harm that cannot be eliminated with reasonable accommodation. The EEOC has already opined that COVID-19 presents a direct threat. The employee claiming a health-related exemption from the vaccination policy is, in effect, asking for an accommodation in the form of a waiver of the policy as it applies to him or her. Providing this accommodation may mean subjecting this employee to other screening measures in the workplace, such as temperature taking or requiring this employee to wear a face mask in the workplace. Be careful, though, because some employees are objecting to wearing masks in the workplace for health-related reasons, which begins the analysis all over again.

Religious Concerns

Similarly, employers also have a duty to reasonably accommodate an employees' sincerely held religious beliefs, practices, or observances, unless doing so would cause more than a minimal burden on the operations of the employer's business. This means an employer may be required to make reasonable adjustments to the work environment that will allow an employee to practice his or her religion, such as waiving the requirements of the vaccination policy as it applies to this employee.

In either instance, if no reasonable accommodation exists that eliminates the direct threat in the workplace, the employee is without employment protection under either the ADA or Title VII.

Employers Administering the

Vaccine

For employers who will be administering the vaccine in the workplace, the EEOC notes that pre-screening vaccination questions may implicate the ADA's provision on disability-related inquiries, which are inquiries likely to elicit information about a disability. If the employer administers the vaccine, it must show that such pre-screening questions are job-related and consistent with business necessity. The invites the direct threat issue and analysis discussed above.

Other Considerations

Employers that choose to require their employees to get vaccinated will also need to consider whether the time employees spend getting vaccinated is compensable working time under the Fair Labor Standards Act, and whether the cost is reimbursable to the employee. Generally, if your company determines that requiring the vaccination is job-related and consistent with business necessity, time employees spend getting vaccinated will be compensable work time. Further, the cost for the vaccine may be reimbursable, particularly if the cost of the vaccine has the effect of bringing your non-exempt employees' pay for the week below minimum wage.

What about OSHA? Under the Biden Administration, there will be efforts to publish a standard addressing the COVID-19 hazard in the workplace. Whether such a standard will impose upon employers the duty to require or administer vaccines in the workplace remains to be seen.

If the past is any indication, back in 2014, OSHA did opine that during a pandemic, employers may offer appropriate vaccines to workers to reduce the number of those at risk of infection in their workplace. At that time, OSHA did not impose upon employers the duty to require employees to get vaccinated, but only suggested employers should encourage employees to get a seasonal flu vaccination as part of its pandemic preparedness guidance.

Separate from the legal considerations discussed above, before adopting a COVID-19 vaccination policy, be sure to also consider the possible fall out in employee morale, particularly with employees who are against getting vaccinated for reasons other than health related or religious reasons. Indeed, Time Magazine recently published an article citing a Pew survey which suggests that as much as 39% of the population “probably” or “definitely” will not take the COVID-19 vaccine. Are you going to terminate the employee who refuses to get vaccinated without having a protected reason for doing so? You may have a group of employees that approach you in a united effort to object to a mandatory vaccine policy. That concerted activity by your employees concerning the terms and conditions of employment is protected activity under the National Labor Relations Act.

Conclusion

While very little of this is clear at this point, what is clear that in anticipation of the COVID-19 vaccine become available, employers should implement a COVID-19 vaccination policy that addresses all of the issues raised above. Clearly, in drafting such a policy, there is a lot to consider. As they say, “Do not try this at home!” Instead, be sure to consult with your legal counsel.

2021 GARCA Scholarship Program Update

This year, GARCA received a number of great applications from student-candidates. While the selection of the 2021 recipients was challenging, it is rewarding to see so many outstanding young leaders and scholars preparing for a bright future.

As a GARCA Scholarship Award winner, each qualified applicant will receive $1,000 to be used toward their education. Before a check can be cut, we need to receive proof of enrollment for Fall 2021, a student ID and a photo.

New this year, we asked applicants to write an essay that answers the question: “Describe a problem you've solved or a problem you'd like to solve. Explain its signifi- cance to you and what steps you took or could be taken to identify a solution.” We were very impressed by the applications, support documentation and overall credentials we received.

We will also feature our Scholarship winners in the post-convention edition of the GARCA RoofTopper newsletter. If you have not already done so, please be sure to send us a photo of yourself.

If your student received an email saying that they qualified to receive a scholarship, please contact us, via info@garca.org, with proof of your Fall 2021 enrollment, as soon as you have it. As always, we will make the check out to the school but will mail it to your home address so you can deliver it yourself.

Again, on behalf of the entire GARCA association, congratulations to all of the winners on being selected for this year's scholarship!

The Annual GARCA Golf Tournament is our primary source of funding for the Scholarship Program. Thank you to all participants, sponsors and Board Members for their support of this important event.

MARK YOUR CALENDARS! The 2021 GARCA Golf Tournament will be held at Stone Mountain on Thursday, October 7, 2021.
